Workforce Investment Council

Introduction

In 1984, the Department of Employment Services published its first "Directory of the Chief Executive Officers of the 200 Major Employers in the District of Columbia." Today, the Top 200 is a broad representation of District-based industries including social services, department stores, restaurants, hotels, educational institutions, construction firms, financial institutions and membership organizations.

The first directory was updated five times in 12 years before becoming an annual in 1997. In 2002, it added web addresses for those employers who have web locations and, in some instances, the email addresses at which local employers can be reached.

The 2004 release includes the names of CEOs, human resource directors, and telephone numbers of major private sector firms operating in the District of Columbia. The directory also contains a ranking of the 200 firms according to the size of their work force in the District. The employment levels used for selecting and ranking employers are those reported to the District's Unemployment Compensation Program as of September 2003.

The industry classifications utilized in the list of employers and CEOs are from the North American Industry Classification System, 2002.

Most years the directory is a snapshot of the District of Columbia's job market. This year is no exception. It includes firms demonstrating a potential for public and private economic development, as well as employment and training partnerships. The Top 200 is designed as a tool for planners, administrators, and any others who are interested in contacting the District's leading employers.

Overview

Welcome to the Top 200 list of District employers. Organizations are ranked by the number of people they employ in the District of Columbia. Twenty-six firms enter the Top 200 this year. The turnover is emblematic of the variety of companies and sizes among the region's top firms.

The Top 200 represents approximately one percent of all private sector firms, but employ more than 148,800 people. Employment levels decline rapidly as one moves down the roster. They range from 6,600 workers at the top of the list – to 295 employed at the final 200.

Average employment tells a similar story. Among the first 50 firms, the average employed is 1,669; the next 50 average barely a third of that amount, 575. Firms ranked 101 to 150 average 339 employees; and employers 151 to 200 average 323 workers per firm.

Educational institutions employ more than any other group. The education sector employs approximately 23,600, or 16 percent of all employed by the Top 200. Hospitals are next, with 17,500 or 12 percent, followed by hotels at 7,900, law firms with 5,300, and restaurants and banks with 5,300 employees.

Organizations new to this year's list are from a range of industries, from management consulting to technology, and from restaurants to charter schools, organized labor, higher education, the law, temporary staffing and security.

The Top 200 bid farewell to 26 firms on last year's list. Firms who left the list were in temporary employment, security, government contracting, academia, television, banking, hospitality, legal services, politics, trade associations, technology and utilities.

1. Bell Atlantic changed its name to Verizon.
2. Crestar Bank changed its name to SunTrust Bank of Georgia.
3. Securitas is the new name for Pinkertons Security
4. Price Waterhouse Coopers wishes its name to appear as "PricewaterhouseCoopers."
5. D.C. Housing Authority and D.C. Water and Sewer Authority were separated from the District of Columbia Government and are not counted as public agencies.
6. PHI Service Company is the parent company for PEPCO.
7. Davis Memorial Goodwill Industries is now called Goodwill Greater Washington.
8. There are two Fortune 500 Corporations "headquartered" in the nation's capital which also appear on DOES' Top 200 Employer Listing. The rankings by revenue are in this order:
Fannie Mae
Marriott International, Inc.
Of the 200 firms, 126 are in the northwest quadrant of the city. These firms are heavily concentrated in the downtown and midtown areas. There are 22 firms in the northeast quadrant, one firm in the southwest quadrant and five firms in the southeast quadrant. The home office is in Maryland and Virginia for 21 and 23 firms, respectively. One firm's home office is in Texas and another is in California.
9. Absences of personnel contacts for listed employers are the result of current vacancies or lack of a central personnel office within the organization.
